3rd ADDITION TO THE LIST OF BUILDINGS OF SPECIAL ARCHITECTURAL OR HISTORIC INTEREST IN THE CAUSEWAY COAST AND GLENS BOROUGH COUNCIL

HB Ref. Number	OS Map Numbers 1:2,500 or 1:10,000	Irish Grid Ref.	Building	Date Listed	Grade	Description and Evaluation	Date of Erection
HB03/16/019	13/13NW	C8433 3243	Water Fountain Captain Street Coleraine Co. Londonderry BT51 3HP		B+	Cast iron water fountain, built c.1870 and located at the pavement's edge on the south side of Lower Captain Street, Coleraine. Designed by engineering firm Glenfield Company Limited, it is a rare surviving example of its type within the context of Northern Ireland. Square on plan with Classical proportions to main shaft; the distinctive lion-head surround to the water spout is typical of that used on water fountains at this time. The ornate decoration and elliptical ball finial is indicative of the attention to detail given to street furniture in the late Victorian era. Of historical interest as it predates mains water installation; it is thought that a bore hole drew spring water from 80ft below. Significant also from a social perspective as a supply fresh water to local residents, many of whom would not have this facility within their own homes; as such it became an informal gathering point.	1860 - 1879

SCHEDULE

41st ADDITION TO THE LIST OF BUILDINGS OF SPECIAL ARCHITECTURAL OR HISTORIC INTEREST IN THE CAUSEWAY COAST AND GLENS BOROUGH COUNCIL

HB Ref. Number	OS Map Numbers 1:2,500 or 1:10,000	Irish Grid Ref.	Building	Date Listed	Grade	Description and Evaluation	Date of Erection
HB05/08/005 B	7/5SE	C9489 4145	Coach yard including Outbuildings and clock tower Dundarave Estate Bushmills County Antrim BT57 8ST		B+	The coach yard at Dundarave Estate is located in close proximity to the main house, forming a key part of its immediate designed setting, and presumably built to designs by eminent Ulster architect, Charles Lanyon, alongside the main house, which was built to his designs between 1849 and 1853. The coach yard is designed as a formal courtyard complex, in an Italiante style typical of Lanyon (used also in the main house), dominated by a fine campanile clock tower and lower entrance range symmetrically composed about a raised entrance arch detailed with rustication and pediment. The proportions are balanced throughout and details are well-executed, including finely tooled stonework to arcaded openings. The complex retains a high proportion of original fabric, demonstrative of traditional techniques and materials, albeit with some alterations, and retaining original fenestration throughout. Original fittings enhance the architectural and historic interest of the complex, indicative of the history of use of the complex. The stable yard is a key element in the wider group of estate buildings, including main house (HB05/08/005A), farm yard (HB05/08/005C), walled garden (HB05/08/005G), gates and walling.	1840 - 1859

42nd ADDITION TO THE LIST OF BUILDINGS OF SPECIAL ARCHITECTURAL OR HISTORIC INTEREST IN THE CAUSEWAY COAST AND GLENS BOROUGH COUNCIL

HB05/08/005 C	7/5SE	C9506 4166	Farm yard including Farm complex and stables Dundarave Estate Bushmills County Antrim BT57 8ST		B2	The farm yard at Dundarave Estate is a substantial quadrangular courtyard complex located at the east of the estate group, some distance from the main Italianate mansion. Detailing suggests that it is contemporary with the coach yard (HB05/08/005B), which was designed by Charles Lanyon, and shares some features with it, including multi-pane timber windows and half-louvred openings. Although it has less architectural ambition than the coach yard (located next to the main house), the farmyard nonetheless exhibits a strong element of formalised design, characterised by symmetry and balanced proportions. Most of the complex is single storey, fulfilling a variety of functions associated with animal husbandry and the running of a substantial landholding. Constructed of local basalt rubble, with finely crafted stone dressings, it is a good example of traditional construction; the stable block (which sits apart from the main yard) is particularly fine, with stalls separated by graceful stone columns. Although in poor condition, the farm yard has survived relatively intact, with a high proportion of original fabric. It makes a strong contribution to the architectural quality of the estate group, and provides historic context relating to the economic functioning of the estate.	1840 - 1859

Although now largely obscured by overgrowth, the interior of the structure remains largely intact, and represents a relatively rare survivor within an Ulster context. It also enhances understanding of the functioning of a large estate in the nineteenth century, having group value with Dunderave House and its surrounding outbuildings.	1840 - 1859
